Important points

- This is a part-time programme designed for students working within the drug safety pharmaceutical sector. Its flexible delivery enables students to study whilst working full-time. For each module, students study pre-course reading material which is assessed during a 3-day block teaching short course.
- Students are required to complete an assignment which is submitted 6-8 weeks after the 3-day block teaching short course. After completion of eight 15 credit modules all MSc students will carry out a research project that will normally be an in-depth investigation of an aspect of drug safety.
- The programme is supported by industry experts and the Pharmaceutical Information and Pharmacovigilance Association and offers genuine career development opportunities to all students.
