You can find full details of your course in the Programme Specification.

Important points

- Specialist teaching from expert practitioners

- Gain in-depth understanding of the processes by which designs are realised, including new and disruptive technologies.

- Explore the ways in which societies use design to solve issues within the environment – culturally and socially – ultimately asking questions about the type of future we want to create.

- Explore how design research underpins creative design and learn how to critically evaluate needs within stakeholder groups

- The course will be of interest if you're a product or industrial designer, or a design professional working in a related field.

- Additional expenses vary according to the nature of the Major Project the student choses to undertake and the figures below are thus merely indicative.

Academic Year

Academic Year 2021 – 2022

The University's academic year is made up of 3 Semesters.
