Course Description

There are three key events in the life of a film: the script, the shoot, and the edit. Editing is where it all comes together, where meaning is created through cutting sound and picture. This is the moment when the story is finally told.

While editing is at the heart of this course, students will also have the opportunity to specialise in at least one other aligned skill set: visual effects, colour grading, or shoot-and-edit. Students will develop these skills through workshops, through practical application, and through giving and taking feedback. At the same time, students will acquire skills in post technology and media management which form the backbone of Editing & Post-Production.

Throughout their learning journey students will come to see their practice within the context of wider social, cultural and aesthetic contexts. Students will engage in debates around broader contemporary issues and develop a full range of core skills.

Current employment opportunities within the sector are excellent. Editing and post-production are practiced virtually everywhere across the commercial, public, and voluntary sectors. Telling stories in moving pictures and sounds has become our preferred way to talk to our audiences and customers.

Editing & Post-production job prospects and employability rates are very good, with around 90% of our students finding employment within three months of graduating. Initially, these will be junior roles in editing, colour grading, compositing, and sound design, as well as a range of assisting and technical roles such as runner, edit producer, data wrangler, post producer, and technician. Some graduates will blaze a trail in the rich and diverse worlds beyond the media sector, while others will make their mark in the postproduction heartlands: BBC, SKY, ITV, Disney, Vice, Envy, Halo, The Farm, Molinaire, Dneg, Framestore and The Mill. Our graduates have worked on many prestigious films including Amy, Star Wars, No Time to Die, and 14 Peaks.

The Editing & Post-production course was one of the very first dedicated editing courses in the UK, and the skills and knowledge of the team and industry links are central to the success of the course and the graduates. The creative, technical and professional skillsets acquired by the students ensure they graduate as work-ready practitioners.

The post-production facilities at Ravensbourne mirror industry resources including high end Quality Control operations (DPP). Throughout their learning journey students will have access to high quality, professionally shot rushes across all genres from factual to drama, and from promos to news packages. Students will take on live commissions and collaborate with students across other disciplines across the institution.

The course utilises a roster of professional industry guest speakers and visiting lecturers including: Mick Audsley (Murder on the Orient Express), Paul Machliss (Baby Driver), and Lisa Gunning (7 Psychopaths). Over the years, the course has built strong and lasting links with high profile post companies including Avid, Adobe, Apple, Black Magic, Jigsaw24, as well as numerous Post houses and Production companies.

The location of Ravensbourne on the Greenwich Peninsula is also an important geographical factor, as it sits very close to one of the biggest post-production hubs in the world. This proximity affords students great opportunities for jobs and work-placements.

Equality, Diversity and Inclusion

We take pride in a culture that anticipates, supports and celebrates equality of opportunity. Reflecting the diversity of our local community, we are proactive and holistic in our approach to promoting social mobility, internationalisation, and inclusion, enabling change beyond Ravensbourne, to the socio-economic and ethnic profile of practitioners in the creative industries.

effective delivery of outcomes aligned to editing & post-production processes.

All module briefs will be created with blended learning in mind but leverage appropriate face to face teaching. Some modules will feature online delivery as part of the normal delivery schedule.

In addition, students may also test their developing disciplinary knowledge with collaborative learning exercises and challenges as directed by module briefs using both digital and physical spaces to achieve goals.

Level 4 will provide a set of technical and theoretical competencies that enable students to engage with the practice of Editing & Post-Production and how to manage learning in a creative HE environment.

Students will also be introduced to what it means to be creative and how creative people initiate, plan and execute projects alongside rigorous technical due diligence.

Learning is facilitated by permanent and sessional teaching staff, who are practising professionals themselves and bring an important industry-informed perspective to the course.

Students will be introduced to industry through skills, discussion of key topics and direct interaction with industry.

Level 4 will also introduce the students to the Professional Life Practice modules that are embedded in each undergraduate learning level. These modules specifically support collaborative experimental practice, entrepreneurship, and enterprise, helping to catalyse, develop and showcase interdisciplinary working methods interaction and innovation.

Each module has a Formative assessment point where students are given feedforward/feedback on work so far and advice and guidance on how to develop and complete projects. This can take the form of a group code review, one on one with a tutor or small group as per the project brief for the unit.

Each module has a Summative assessment point where a final grade is awarded and feed forward if given to the student.

The Modules will also and facilitate opportunities to integrate with industry partners in order to establish professional currency at the start of the undergraduate journey, and to drive enterprise and employability through the degree experience.

The Professional Life Practice Module integrates the emerging subject knowledge of each student with working methods from a range of disciplines to create a multidisciplinary synthesis of practice, skills and learning. Students will develop social, cultural, emotional, and cognitive intelligence through projects that facilitate community and industry connections aligned to the Ravensbourne core competencies.

Level 5:

Skills acquired at Level 5 are developed further through a combination of workshops, lectures, seminars, group exercises, self-directed study, as well as individual or group tutorials.

Students will engage with collaborative sessions enabling students to develop team working and co-production skills.

These Modules will inform Level 6 Modules around portfolio creation and Final Major Project and enable students to make career choices around their industry discipline.

In addition, students will test their developing disciplinary knowledge in collaborative scenarios with the opportunity to take part in the Professional Life Practice Modules, and Work Based Learning Modules, offering collaborative and industry aligned opportunities both within Ravensbourne and in external contexts.

Visiting speakers and specialists will be invited to deliver lectures or practical workshops, bringing their own specialism and examples of industry work into the sessions.

Level 5:

At level 5 the types of assessment evidence required across the Modules are similar to level 4 in scope and breadth. However, students will be encouraged to self-direct their study within particular skill sets.

Formative Assessment

In Level 5 students will be provided with

Formative assessment feedforward/feedback via individual tutorials, group presentations and individual presentations.

In addition, in Level 5 there is opportunity for collaborative work with peer and industry feedback, and work-based learning opportunities. The Professional Life Practice modules and the Work Based Learning Modules support students to engage with external industry professionals and gain knowledge and insight regarding entrepreneurship, enterprise and agency.

Summative Assessment

This will happen at the end of each module and involve the submission for formal

The Professional Life Practice Modules at Level 5 supports practical, theoretical and industry focused engagement facilitating expertise, experience and interactions with professional aspects of the Editing & Post-Production discipline.

Level 6:

Skills acquired at Level 4 and 5 will be developed and perfected at Level 6 through lectures, seminars, workshops, self-directed study and individual tutorials.

A large proportion of project-based work will be initiated and developed by students themselves, with a view to mastering skills particular to their interests within the discipline.

Students will be encouraged to delve deeper into their particular interests through individual tutorials and programmes of study initiated by the students themselves using online and physical resources.

Students will be offered increased responsibility for their own learning specifically regarding their Level 6 major projects. Students are expected to take on professional attitudes to time and project management.

Visiting lecturers will be invited to deliver lectures and/or practical sessions related to their area of work and students will develop an outward facing portfolio to aid graduate progression.

Written work will focus upon critical analysis and reflection of project-based work, with a view to encouraging ongoing development. Within the sphere of theoretical study, students will expand their ability to write reflexively and critically about their discipline and competently be able to contextualise their personal practice.

assessment of the types of evidence required by each. Again, outcomes for each module will be as flexible as possible, focusing on engagement with the outcomes the brief requires.

Level 6:

In level 6 the types of assessment evidence required across the Modules are similar to level 5 but are more individually focused.

Formative Assessment

In Level 6 students will be provided with

Formative assessment feedforward/feedback via individual tutorials, group presentations and individual presentations.

In addition, in Level 6 there is opportunity and encouragement for students to engage with peer and industry feedback.

Summative Assessment

This will happen at the end of each module and involve the submission for formal assessment of the types of evidence required by each.

Students will be expected to interface directly with industry through mentoring, competition, and research.

Work Placement

<https://www.uel.ac.uk/sites/default/files/7816.pdf>The Post House sector has for many years been a rich source of work placements opportunities for EPP students. This is a large industry, mostly based in London, and offers a full range of postproduction services to TV, Film and streaming businesses: offline/online editing, colour grading, motion graphics, vfx, sound design, as well as technical services. Typically, work placement roles include hospitality/technical runner, and a variety of assisting roles. Students may also find work placements at production companies, and some will pursue freelance opportunities.

Both the 'Moving Images Industries' and the 'Industry Practice and Futures' modules will serve to equip and prepare students for WP. They will also be encouraged to seek further help and support from the Careers team, and will find a variety of work placement openings on Ravensbourne's job board.
